

Planned Giving to BROOD

"Support your love of animals through a planned gift to BROOD. You can leave a legacy that will help us rescue and care for hounds for years to come."

-- Christine Williams, BROOD President

Wills

You may bequeath to BROOD a stated dollar amount, a percentage of the value of your estate, a share of the residual (the amount that remains after providing for your heirs), or give securities (stocks, bonds, or mutual funds).

Financial Accounts

Most financial accounts may be made payable upon death to a named beneficiary, including a nonprofit organization such as BROOD.

What is Planned Giving?

Planned giving allows you to set up in advance a method for making charitable contributions to BROOD after your death. You should consult a financial advisor to find out more about the tax implications of the different types of planned giving.

Life Insurance

You may name BROOD as the beneficiary, co-beneficiary, or a contingent beneficiary of your life insurance policies.

Retirement Savings

IRAs, pensions, 401K plans, and other retirement savings arrangements provide for death beneficiaries—which may include nonprofit organizations like BROOD.

Trusts

Revocable living trusts, charitable lead trusts, and charitable remainder trusts are just some of the instruments through which you can donate to BROOD.
